

Wedding Price Guide 2009

There is a range of different styles of wedding photography - ranging from very traditional through to reportage (captured without any direction from the photographer) with a vast range inbetween.

We'd like to think that we are versatile enough to give you the styles you like the most, and a mix wide enough to keep the rest of the family really happy. We have won awards in three of the four different wedding categories in the MPA (Master Photographers Association) so other photographers think we can too!

We photograph entirely with the best digital cameras available - they allow us to take hundreds of photographs quickly and discreetly - and afterwards we can convert images to B&W, sepia, soft focus etc - as well as "swapping heads" and removing distracting details.

All the prints we produce for you are made in our own fully digital lab - in which we have invested well in excess of £200,000 since 1999 - so you can be assured of great print quality.

So your date's set, the venue is booked - and now you are looking to choose a photographer...

What makes us different from the rest?

David has been photographing weddings well over 30 years - he photographed his first when he was 13... so the 1,350 he's covered since gives a wealth of experience. Not all weddings are the same - we spend time to find out exactly the style and look you are after, then David takes most to suit.

We only photograph one wedding a day. There are no real limits - we'll spend as long as you want - take as many images as we can - and you'll end up with a large number of prints (usually 300+) the photos on to our website and a copy on CD.

You can then opt to have us create your finished album - these range widely in both style and price - from a few hundred to a few thousand - though most are nearer the bottom price!

Our prices are simple to understand. We have a coverage fee which includes all the time you need and travel costs to anywhere in mainland Scotland. It includes two sets of previews of the best photos of the day - which is around 300 different images - one set comes complete in a preview binder. We also put all your images online - and you get larger files on a CD for your computer.

The only thing not included is your finished album - there is a wide selection of styles and designs which can vary in price from a few hundred to two thousand. We are constantly reviewing the albums we use - look at the website to see the new styles. There is, however, no requirement for you to buy any album - it's much more important to get the photographs sorted first. You can opt to frame just a few prints, or we can just supply prints. We are happy with whatever you choose!
